*Make your wedding
a part of history*

A venue like no other

The Elvetham Estate is filled with over a century of English history. England's tales are embedded into its ancient oaks and parklands. It's the site where Eadric the Wild plotted against William the Conqueror in the 11th Century, where King Henry VIII fell in love with Jane Seymour, his third wife and mother of his longed-for heir, and where Queen Elizabeth I was treated to a spectacular four days of festivities known as the Elvetham Entertainment.

While only parts of the medieval house remain, its ancient spirit has been woven into the modern trappings of a luxury hotel and wedding venue, allowing many more families to add their own piece of history to this amazing location.

The main house is approached via our scenic tree lined driveway with stunning views of the Hampshire countryside, following the flow of the river Hart. The Elvetham boasts a wonderful array of ceremony spaces, both indoor and outdoor, elegant wedding breakfast locations and a host of evening entertainment to choose from.

Our unique location, spectacular country house and exceptional hospitality provide a magical and romantic setting for a truly unforgettable wedding day.

Explore our estate
